

You're Holding Sixty Million Plastic Bottles In Your Hand Right Now.

That's how many plastic bottles Americans use and discard each day, adding to the 56 tons of trash produced by each person, each year. The container you hold in your hand represents at least 166 water bottles that you can save from the landfill this year, helping C. Erickson & Sons in its commitment to reuse, recycle, and renew.

That's the purpose behind our philosophy of Working Green, transforming the way we work - both on the job and in our own offices - to support a greener workplace, and a better way of doing business.

In addition to providing education on current green building techniques, Here are just some of the ways we're committing to Working Green:

-  Eco-friendly cleaning products and supplies
-  Recycled copy paper and ink cartridges
-  Electronic document and file storage
-  Used paper repurposed into memo pads
-  Energy-efficient "lights out" policies
-  Switching to reusable glasses, silverware and plates

...not to mention the bottle that you're holding in your hand.

C. Erickson & Sons continues to explore the ways in which we can make a positive difference in the local and global green movement.

Let us know if your business has an interest in LEED-certified or Green Building practices -- we're ready to share our qualifications, and show you a whole new meaning to The Erickson Difference.
